

60 years of slogans: How to con Kenyans

TIBIM. From 'Uhuru na Kazi' in the early 1960s to 'Bado Mapambano', 'Tano Tena' and now 'Hustler', Kenya's political dustbin is overflowing with catch-phrases that captured national imagination only to disappoint. Pages 6 & 7

Financial standard

The hidden money minters of Marikiti

Enterprise. It's the only part of the city that never goes to sleep. It's loud, it's brutal, but it's also where fortune favours the brave. Meet the men and women feeding the city.

The Standard Kenya's Bold Newspaper

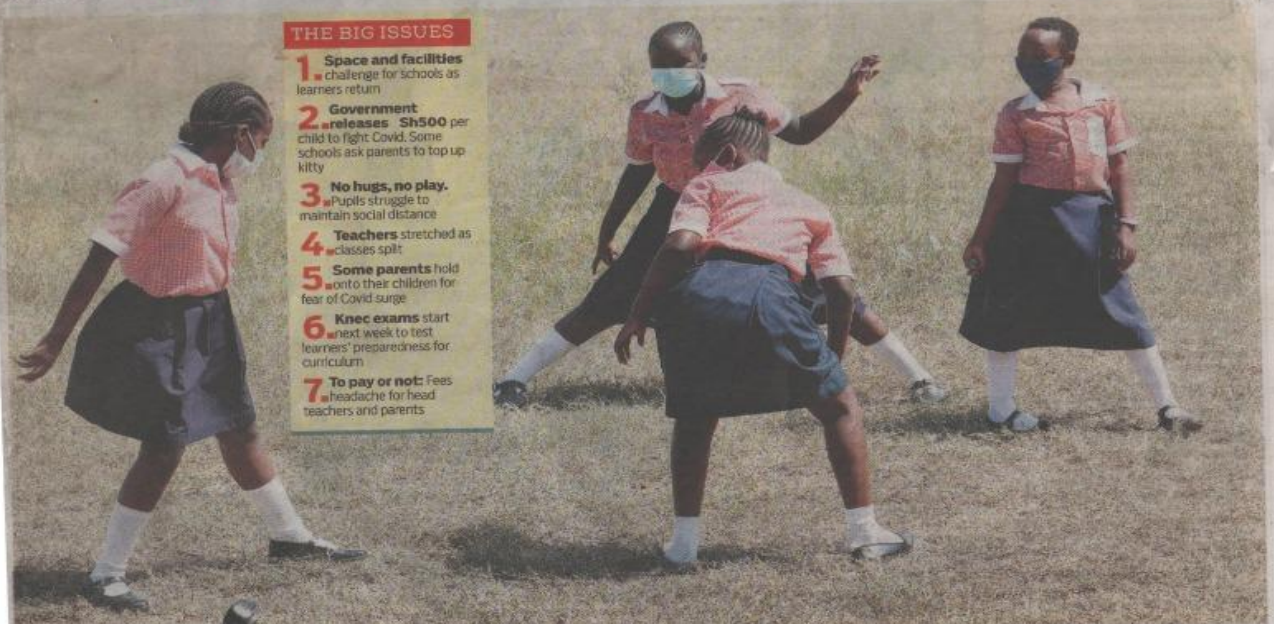

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 2020 No. 40073 KSh60/00 TSh1,700/00 US$2,700/00 standardmedia.co.ke

The big gamble

New normal. Excitement and confusion as schools open >>> Exams start next week to test learners' preparedness >>> Low turnout in some areas amid struggle to meet social distance rules. Pages 2-5

THE BIG ISSUES

- 1. Space and facilities challenge for schools as learners return
- 2. Government releases Sh500 per child to fight Covid. Some schools ask parents to top up kitty
- 3. No hugs, no play. Pupils struggle to maintain social distance
- 4. Teachers stretched as classes split
- 5. Some parents hold onto their children for fear of Covid surge
- 6. Kneec exams start next week to test learners' preparedness for curriculum
- 7. To pay or not: Fees headache for head teachers and parents

Grade Four pupils during a physical education lesson at Nyali Primary School in Mombasa yesterday. It was the first day in school for children under strict Covid-19 safety protocols. (Omondi Oryango, Standard)